cruisin' COLORADO

volume no. 4

There's only one...

CACHE LA POUDRE

Named for a band of French trappers who were forced to bury their gunpowder by the banks to hide it during a storm, the Cache la Poudre (meaning "hide the powder") has carved out one of Colorado's most scenic canyons. Winding 101 miles through national forest and over scenic passes, the Cache la Poudre byway connects Fort Collins to the town of Walden and serves as the gateway to the untouched high-prairie grasslands of North Park.

UN-FUN FACTS

Miles long 101

Hours of drive time
3

Also known as CO HWY 14

WALDEN

Don't miss the North Park Museum and Arapaho National Wildlife Refuge.

north PARK

Basically a huge valley full of wildlife, sure South Park gets the fame, but North Park has the moose, or is it mooses?

Gould

cameron PASS

Named for the Founder of Fort Collins, Robert...Cameron—bet you didn't see that coming.

what is that KAYAKER SAYING?

52% "Look at me"

39% "Piece of cake"

9% "Blub glub glub"

cache la poudre RIVER

Known to locals as the Poudre River. Yes, it's really pronounced "pooder."

Rustic

why are those SHEEP FIGHTING?

A. This head ain't gonna butt itself

B. This cliff isn't wide enough for the two of us

C. It's the season finale of Sheep Bachelor

Roosevelt National Forest

Rocky Mountain National Park

how to GET THERE

Starting in Fort Collins, take U.S. Highway 287 northwest to Colorado HWY 14 in Bellevue. From there the highway winds its way along the scenic Cache la Poudre River Canyon.

Nearest branch locations:
Fort Collins, CO → Fort Collins

MEMBER FDIC